

Russian passenger films strange UFO

Sunday, 31 May 2009

Passengers on a Russian Airliner headed from Moscow to Perm, filmed an incredible, and rather strange looking UFO.

Just last night, Russian Media published a story that workers in the city of Sarapul early morning witnessed a UFO, which they believed was the Russian rocket Soyuz, launched earlier from Pletsk.

However, after reviewing the footage from the facility, analysts and experts believe it is the same UFO which was filmed later in the day by airline passengers.

It's not the typical 'flying saucer' UFO usually seen around the globe. This one is a bit more spectacular looking.